FACULTY AND STAFF AWARD WINNERS

Leadership Award: Dee Gillespie

For outstanding contributions in leading the staff in EAS. Dee has transformed the way the department looks and operates, and has provided invaluable input for departmental leadership.

Graduate Student Mentoring Award: Gerald Krockover

For decades of outstanding impact through mentoring and training graduate students and graduate teaching assistants in EAS and C&I, as well as impacts on countless in-service teachers who have been reached through graduate-level professional development workshops.

Engagement Award: Elizabeth McNie

In recognition of outstanding contributions engaging faculty, students and the larger audience in the interface between science and policy research. In particular, for "Beyond Climategate" an outstanding event that provided very positive recognition for Purdue.

Undergraduate Advising Award: Greg Michalski

Recognizes outstanding contributions in advising numerous undergraduate research students in EAS and Chemistry, as well as leadership in working to develop the Purdue e-journal for undergraduate research.

Leadership Award: Eric Riggs

For outstanding contributions as faculty advisor for AISES, as a respected and experienced leader in undergraduate curriculum reform, and as a leader in science education programs and research initiatives as co-director of CRESME.
